NATIONAL TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION DAY

Tuesday, September 27, 2022

BMHS

National Truth and Reconciliation Day is this Friday, also known as Orange Shirt Day.

We wear orange to honour the over 3,200 victims and thousands of survivors who attended Residential Schools in Canada between the mid-1800s until the last school finally closed in 1996. We acknowledge the intergenerational trauma caused by this system and the impacts felt today by communities across the nation. But it's not just a day - it's a year round educational movement to create a more inclusive future, to motivate massive and positive societal change.

Chief Justice and Senator Murray Sinclair has said "Education is what got us into this mess - education is what's going to get us out. We need to look at the way we are educating all children - that's why we say this is not an Aboriginal problem. It's a Canadian problem."

This week we'll celebrate the successes of Indigenous people, and commit to learning more about Truth and Reconciliation.
